

Abstract

Title: Models of game cooperation at finishing in football

Objectives: The aim of this diploma thesis is to carry out quantitative and qualitative analysis of football matches played at EURO 2012.

Methods: Research was made by indirect observation of football matches.

Results: The aim of this thesis was accomplished. The teams were compared in several categories. The hypothesis was confirmed in particular categories and disproved in others. Research questions were answered. Acquired knowledge was used for setting up training exercise.

Keywords: game performance, players, game situations, qualitative analysis